Remember the Auction sale of stock and farming tools at the Andrews farm tomorrow at 1 P. M. Postponed to Monday if stormy.

The fourth grade of the Stowe School beat the "Merrymack" School of North Andover 16 to 0 last Saturday at the "rush game."

Dr. Thayer, of Boston, says Ayer's Hygienic Coffee is an admirable beverage, possessing none of the pernicious effects of coffee; grocers sell it.

Under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the South Church, there will be a meeting in the Holt District schoolhouse next Sunday afternoon (Nov. 10) at 3 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Alfred S. Byers of this town has withdrawn from the manufacturing firm of Sagebomme & Byers at North Andover. The business will be continued by Mr. Sagebomme.

William Rea, who recently cut his eye, has been at the Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston and it is stated he is recovering rapidly and will not lose the sight of the eye.

The quarterly meeting of the executive committee of the Village Improvement Society will be held in the School Committee room next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

W. H. Higgins of the Park Street stables had charge of the carriages at the Stevens-Cross wedding at North Andover yesterday. Eighteen hacks and the four horse brake were used.

Miss Dolly Farnum, teacher of the eighth grade at the Stowe School, has been obliged to resign her position on account of poor health. Miss Clara Putnam has been taking her place and may be secured to fill it permanently.

Quite a number of the local members of the Home Circle, of Methuen, attended the select assembly at that place, Wednesday evening. It was a very pleasant occasion. They returned home by special electric.

The waste paper boxes, promised by the A. V. I. S. for the Post Office, have been put in place, one on each side of the waiting room. It now remains for the patrons to do their part by throwing all their scrap paper into them.

At a meeting of the November Club Monday afternoon Miss Chamberlain read an intensely interesting paper on "Miss Edgeworth and her Writings." The essay showed careful preparation and much literary ability.

At the next regular meeting of Wm. F. Bartlett Relief Corps, which occurs Tuesday evening Nov. 12, Mrs. Clara J. Sylvester of Lawrence, Mass., inspecting officer will be present. A full attendance is desired. Meeting at 7.30 sharp. Collection during the evening.

Miss Helen Jackson, daughter of Wm. T. Jackson Abbott Street, has gone to Washburn, Wis., having been engaged as a teacher in the North Wisconsin Academy. Miss Jackson is a graduate of Abbot Academy in the class of '95. Her many friends will wish her success in her new duties.

The employees of the Boston & Maine Railroad, including all the trainmen, are to undergo a thorough examination in Boston, which is to be conducted by one of the chief train dispatchers, and will be regarding the rules governing the running of trains. A physical examination and a test of their eyesight will also be made to note if any are color blind. The trainmen are studying up preparatory to taking their turn, and will be glad when the school closes.

J. H. Campion, of Andover, and W. D. Currier have purchased the business interests of F. A. Churchill, the well known groceryman. The business was founded by H. Payson, who was succeeded by Mr. Churchill's father. F. A. Churchill became proprietor of the store when his father died. He has been very successful, and the business has grown to such proportions that one man could not manage it. Mr. Churchill will retain a small interest and will act as manager of the new concern.—Lawrence Eagle.

Joseph & Dennison was defeated for Senator in the third Middlesex District by Representative Dallinger.

A meeting will be held in the Holt District schoolhouse on Sunday at 3 o'clock. Mr. Shipman will lead.

The Phillips Glee Club, which is said to be unusually good this year, is the attraction at the Grange Fair to-night.

Miss M. Lissie Holt recently enjoyed a fine trip to Washington and vicinity with the family of W. Lewis, of Somerville.

H. H. Church is building an addition to his Haverhill Street residence in Lawrence and his family will probably not move from this town until January.

The friends of Rev. Robert S. Lindsay and family of Columbus, O., will be glad to learn that they are recovering from a severe attack of diphtheria.

The next social in the course of three at the November Club House, will probably be held on Friday evening, Nov. 22. Watch the next TOWNSMAN for program and definite announcement.

Abbott Irving and Arthur W. Holt were on the committee of arrangements, and the latter was floor director, of the dancing party given by the Home Circle at Methuen Wednesday evening.

Frank E. Gleason states that if the person, who was seen to remove the large pencil hanging on the wall in his office will return the same, he will avoid legal proceedings.

The Kaffee Klatsch, the first entertainment at the November Club House, Tuesday night, had a good audience, who enjoyed the beautiful music and a very social time. Erich Loeffler, cellist, and Albert Van Raalte, violinist, from Boston, assisted by home talent furnished the very excellent program.

The Burns Club held its annual meeting in the Village Hall, last Saturday evening and elected the following officers: President, James Anderson; vice-president, Thomas David; secretary, John S. Harris; treasurer, Alexander Dick; executive committee, Charles McDermott, William Haddon, James Anderson.

Prof. Geo. F. Moore of the Seminary will contribute to the critical edition of the Hebrew Bible and the new English translation of the same, the book of Judges printed in six colors. It is already in type and will appear in the Spring. The Editor-in-chief is Paul Haupt of Johns Hopkins, and associated with him are other famous European and American Hebraists.

There was an exciting scene on the 10 P. M. Andover electric car from Lawrence last Saturday, so it is reported. A number of men, among whom was a colored fellow, were creating a disturbance and the latter became so objectionable that he was ejected from the car by the conductor at Phillips Hill. When the car started the colored fellow discharged a revolver three times but did no damage.

The Society of Inquiry at the Seminary will have a public discussion in Bartlett Chapel next Wednesday evening on "Missions in India." The topics will include: A short map study, Mr. Dunbar; India, as to-day situated, Mr. Bartley; missions in India prior to the American Board, Mr. Arthur Truslow; missions of the American Board, Mr. Axtell; a statistical survey of the missions in India, Mr. Abbott, and a letter from India, Rev. H. G. Bissell.

William A. Corae, the well-known wall-paper dealer, died suddenly last week Thursday of apoplexy at his home in Medford. He was 44 years old. Mr. Corae is an old Andover boy and is very well known by many here. During his many years of business in Boston he has had a large Andover trade, and he was pleased at any time to meet his old acquaintances. He was a very genial, whole-souled man, and his friends here will be sorry to learn of his sudden death.

Andover's Christian Endeavor societies were well represented at the county convention in Lawrence, Wednesday afternoon and evening, at the Lawrence Street Church. It was an enthusiastic gathering and very successful. President Francis E. Clark was the principal speaker of the afternoon and received a cordial greeting. The programme was as announced in the last Townsman. The addresses were able and interesting and full of good thoughts for the different societies.

The members of Council 65 Royal Arcanum, who attended the public meeting in Haverhill Wednesday evening, report a very enthusiastic and large meeting. It was held in the Academy of Music. Among those seated on the platform was Grand Vice Regent Charles W. Clark of this town. Addresses were made by Grand Regent David of Lowell, Past Supreme Regent Butler, Henry Goodwin, Supreme Chaplain, and Rev. W. E. Dyer. The Boston Ideals and Ariel Quartet furnished music for the occasion, and later in the evening an elaborate banquet was held in Tanner's Hall. The Andover party had a special electric car.

The Engine Company was out for practice Wednesday Night on Morton Street.

At a meeting of the New England Historic Genealogical Society in Boston, Wednesday afternoon, ex-Governor Claflin presided and Prof. Symth of the Theological Seminary read a paper on "Jonathan Edwards." It proved to be a critical examination of certain early writings of Jonathan Edwards between the years 1712 and 1727, that is between his 9th and 33rd birthdays. The papers, most of which were produced by Prof. Symth, included an essay "On Being," "Spider Papers" and "The Rainbow." They showed remarkable capacity for philosophical thought in one so young.

Foot Ball.

The Phillips Andover team is a very uncertain quantity this year. To everybody's surprise she was beaten by Yale Fresh last Saturday 6 to 0. Defeat was principally due to poor playing. A kind not to be expected with the season so far advanced. With any kind of interference and team play, Andover should have scored easily. However it was every man for himself and, as it does nine cases out of ten, defeat followed. Yale obtained its touchdown in the first half by a continual hammering at Andover's centre for short gains. Large gains were also made around Capt. Young and Greenway ends. Chadwell replaced the latter and did much better. Hine, who played here last year, was captain of Yale and did some good rushing.

The Boston University-Phillips game Wednesday came to an abrupt end in the middle of the second half. Neither side had scored in the first half, but in the second Andover kept the play in Boston territory and when the latter attempted to kick down the field it was blocked by Andover rushers and Westworth fell upon it. Barker on the second rush crossed the line. Capt. Clarkson of Boston claimed that Barker dropped the ball and a B. U. man fell on it, but Referee Porter rightly decided a touchdown, whereupon Clarkson ordered his men from the field much against their wishes. Barker kicked a goal and Andover was given the game 6 to 0.

The second eleven of Phillips plays Charlestown High to-morrow afternoon on the campus. The first team plays no more games until the Lawrenceville contest next Thursday.

Red Spring Lodge, I. O. G. T.

The installation of officers took place in the A. O. U. W. Hall, Tuesday night, by Deputy Brother Evans of Ballard Vale Lodge, the following being installed:

C. T. Slater Stewart; P. C. T. Brother Rhodes; V. T. Sister Mander; Sec. Brother Hill; Ass. Sec. Brother Clark; Fin. Sec. Brother Eastwood; Treas. Sister Fletcher; M. Sister McCrory; D. M. Brother Hitchcock; C. Brother Cole; G. Brother Myers; Sen. Brother Sullivan; S. C. T. Sister McKenzie.

Afterwards refreshments were served. It is requested that all members be present at the next meeting, and all meetings hereafter at 7.45 instead of 8 o'clock.

The Evening School.

All persons who wish to attend the evening school are requested to meet in the Puchard School building on Wednesday evening, Nov. 12, at eight o'clock. Classes will be arranged in Reading (Miss Morrill), Writing (Miss Carter), primary Arithmetic (Miss Hervey), advanced Arithmetic (Mr. Goodrich), and book-keeping (Mr. Axtell). If there are six or more persons desiring to take any other study not included in this list, the committee will endeavor to arrange a class. No class will be arranged for less than six students. The term will be twelve weeks and the fee $1.00 for each pupil.

THERE ARE FUNNY THINGS

In the merchant tailoring business. It makes a reputable tailor laugh to hear some competitor say he makes a good suit of clothes for $20. Why bless you, dear reader, the making and trimming alone of a good suit of clothes cost more than $20. There is the cost of the cloth and the cutter to pay, and the rent to pay. Then add on a decent profit. Now what kind of workmanship do you think there is in a $20 suit? I don't make the $20 kind. Am very busy making the good kind.

HISTORICAL ANDOVER.

Nicholas Holt and his Neighbors.

"To Right the Wrong," E. Lyall's best work, tells of the fight between King and Parliament that wound up the long-suffering Puritan between 1620 when he ran, and 1642 when he turned and struck back. Search the history of those twenty years and see why people who were not persecuted exiles in Dutch land, hurrying their children away from amalgamating blood and speech, but men of means and good connections—just see why it was that Andover people cut themselves off from home and country, jumping from that cruel "frying-pan" of slit noses and shaved ears to the "Starvation Camp" of New Plymouth, the unsparring rigor of the winter of the West Atlantic, the terrors of whooping savage and unknown wild beasts, with all the drawbacks of isolation in small communities in this trackless wilderness. The two youths in the tale, ride towards Farnham town, past Farnham Castle of Stephen's civil wars, through the great Holt forest, "not a road to travel alone and unarmed, under the dark oaks and beeches," on a July day, in 1642, while Nicholas Holt, John Poor and John Osgood are swinging axes in Merrimac woods and bridging the bogs of Skug River. They jest together, these boys—"Shall we stay in Lincolnshire fens, content to be Hampshire hogs, Surrey dogs, Sussex boars?" These rare epithets partly explain what sent the steady stream to Puritan Massachusetts and Connecticut rather than to the milder and loyal Virginia.

Possibly, our Robert Russell, John Marshall of Bilerica, Thomas Farnum and Captain Thomas Marshall of Lynn, who appear suddenly in this section about 1660, when Charles II is ready to avenge his father had to skip as Puritan soldiers. They are all men of thirty with very young wives, such as soldiers always choose. In the James in 1635, come Nicholas and Ralph Farnum, Senior and John Poor, all with young children. Nicholas and Elizabeth with little Hannah, with Osgood and Poor, leaving Ralph at Boston, come down the shore to Newbury, forgetting the fifty-eight days of tossing Atlantic waves—there in those ten quiet years on the meadows along Little River, Nicholas walks forty miles to Cambridge in 1637 to get registered, in order to vote for Winthrop and defeat Harry Vane, and then is fined four shillings in a year for staying away from town meetings. A man who was tanner, ferryman, farmer and dish turner ought to take a day off occasionally.

When old Winchester Cathedral is turned into a soldiers' barrack and the fields about Abbots Ann Church at Andover, (the ferry over Ande?) so familiar to John Osgood, are desolated by charging troops, Nicholas and John "take up" their claims in our Andover and with eight others follow Woodbridge to plant the old North Church and to spread out over their first, then second and third divisions as "lott-men" buying and selling till they are satisfied with the mile radius about each small garrison house. Nicholas the hill dweller or forester, was off the river road, but, I think the little home, cuddled down the slope, below the Sawyer nut-tree, of the Great Bare Hill, furrowed by cloud burst and spring freshet—this great Pudding mound planted on that old hub of a mountain, called Stony Plain, by the ice, ages ago—really was a garrison-house.

The second Holt house stood west by the Pump; the third is still standing, held last by the heirs of Dane Holt, Senior. His Elizabeth stays only till 1654. In 1653, baby Priscilla aged four months dies; then, in three years, the motherless boys James, at four, Nicholas, nine, Henry, twelve, Sam, fifteen, with Sarah (probably next to James), about six, keep the elder Hannah busy. Mary, at eighteen, marries in a year Thomas Johnson, one of the puzzling children of Haverhill John, settling near by and in 1659 bringing to the Holt family the first grandchild, Mary Johnson. Elizabeth at twenty, in 1668 meets her fate in young Ralph Farnum (of English Draycott), who is drawn up the Merrimac by his sister Mary's marriage with Daniel Poor of Newbury. Ralph's mother Alice and Daniel's sister Alice seem to indicate some connection.

Good neighbor Osgood is dead; maybe the long tramps to Boston were too severe for his declining years. His son-in-law, John Clements, who married Sara, has settled up the estate, with Nicholas Holt famous as a trustee, and now his niece Mary Clements, the wife of young John Osgood, opens her house with the three small children, John, Tim, and Mary to grandmother, the widowed Sarah. Near by live Mary Osgood, her daughter, and Henry Ingalls with little Sam, Henry and Mary. Andrew Allen, perhaps from Salem, who married Faith Ingalls has one small Hannah and Andrew, while sister Elizabeth Ingalls, Parson Dane's lady, has some boys and girls large enough to travel over to Aunt Faith's and Uncle Henry's. There are a few small "kide" down at Asleebe farm—Sam, about ten, John four, with all Asleebe Hill and Pond for a playground.

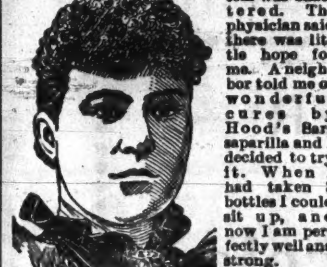

There were six Fries up to John's on the hill, at what is now Enoch's estate and the Atkins' place so long held by the spinster Fries. John, Junior, is just making room for Eunice Potter, probably a Boxford girl, and Elizabeth is getting her spinning ready to stock Robert Stiles' home of Middleton. Sara Frye is hastening to an early grave.

How I would like to have roamed the hills with those irrepressible Fries, Sam Ben and James, with the Dames and Holts. The cider "campers" on old Prospect Hill were not disfiguring the landscape and driving away nobler denizens of the great forest. Into all this pleasant circle of friends and kin comes Robert Russell, the mysterious, in 1659, a man of twenty-nine with Mary Marshall, sixteen. She was the daughter of Thomas Marshall of Reading, who lived on the road that he helped Holt make own by Augustus Gould's. Robert probably makes his first home by the highway, half way between the present Carter estate and Gould's in the line. Thomas Farnum also comes, a man of thirty-two, with Elizabeth Sibbons to live among the ferns, for Farnum is Fern's home or home. These are here in 1660. C. H. A.

My Health Broke Down

With troubles peculiar to women, my nervous system was shattered. The physician said there was little hope for me. A neighbor told me of wonderful cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla and I decided to try it. When I had taken 3 bottles I could sit up, and now I am perfectly well and strong.

A FAMOUS MAN'S MOTHER.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson's Beautiful Tribute to His Mother.

I trace to my mother's direct influence three leading motives of her youngest son's life—the love of personal liberty, of religious freedom and of the equality of the sexes—writes Thomas Wentworth Higginson in 'The Ladies' Home Journal'. As to the more subtle and intimate influences, they ordinarily came by contact, not by preaching. She always maintained that the younger children of a large family had a much better chance for development than the elder because they had more freedom to develop themselves. With her elder children, she always said, overconscientiousness almost bore her to the earth. She felt personally responsible for every childish fault. She had been reared in the school of Locke, which regarded the human soul as blank paper, on which parents and teachers did all the writing. But her children were of strong and varied individuality, and she learned in time to study the temperament of each and be patient with its unfolding. Her whole formula of training consisted in these three things: To retain the entire confidence of the child, to do whatever seemed wisest and to be patient. Her trust in Providence was absolute and controlling, as was her sense of the personality of the Deity.

Most valuable of all her traits to her children next to her quality of sunshine was probably her absolute rectitude, the elevation of her whole tone, the complete unworldliness, so that no child of hers ever heard her refer to any standard but the highest. With all this was combined the conscientious accuracy in affairs, the exquisite nicety in all household details, which belong to the best of the traditions of New England.

It will keep your chickens strong and healthy; will make your pullets lay early; worth its weight in gold for molting hens. Prevents all diseases. It is a Powerful Food Digestive. ## The Elections.

To a strong partisan the result of last Tuesday's election has a striking significance; if a republican, that of assurance of almost unbounded continued success; if a democrat, full of warning and of lesson, if his party would regain its lost hold. But to the observer outside of partisan bias, it has a more striking significance, in showing that men all over this country are beginning to think as men rather than as partisans, and to vote as citizens having a duty to perform and not as a part of a machine. The very independence of our own excellent governor was the most important factor in his grand reelection, and all over the country are numerous illustrations of the same truth. Solidify the party, harmonize its elements, unite its factions, are political war cries that are forever buried under the present public sentiment that calls for the official's best endeavor, his honest service, and his constant recognition of the fact that he is a public and not a political servant. In the teaching of this fact the last election will have great power. In its further stamp of disapproval of all underhanded political work, of secret society influence, and of every other method of gaining political preferment in ways that are dark, the election will do much to clear the air for a battle in 1896 over issues that have a lively interest to the country and its prosperity.

Editorial Cinders.

The Anti-Suffragists have reason to be quite well pleased with Andover's showing on the referendum. About four to one against is quite a strong expression against any measure and the prospects are that the echo of the Andover sentiment throughout the State, will not fail to be heard at Benning Hill for some years to come. One of our sensible Andover men speaks wisely when he suggests that Massachusetts may well watch the experiment in some other State before trying it herself. The female voters in Andover deserve hearty commendation on one phase of their work, and this is the polling of so large a percentage of their registration; if the men had voted in like proportions, there would have been two or three hundred more votes in last Tuesday's total.

Many of us in the center are getting at the Grange Fair now going on our first taste of the splendid hospitality and warm courtesy of the farmers of Andover. They have long had the reputation of having good times among themselves and when, once in a while they share it with the outside world, it makes us all wish we were tillers of the soil. That they know how to do things well the present fair attests, and frequent were the remarks last night that the Town Hall was never more attractive. That splendid vegetable stand led all the rest to the writer's mind, in its particular charm, and tasteful arrangement.

The Evening School does not seem to promise quite as well as last year. This should not be, when there are so many who need just what this school can give. We trust it is only a failure to understand that the work is to begin so soon, that has kept away the number of applicants, and that next Wednesday their will be as large gathering as ever at Panchard.

Our young correspondent on the flag question, whose communication was noted in our last issue sends us his name this week, and adds in reply to our comments that there is room for a pole in the Frye Village Square. While a flag in Frye Village would hardly take the place of a public square flag, our young Frye Villager should be heartily encouraged. Let us have a public flag pole at Frye Village and in the center as well. And may we also have every boy in Andover as patriotic and loyal as this young Frye Villager.

THE LOCAL RESULT.

Andover's Total Vote only 735, the Smallest in Many Years.

When the polls opened at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning the prospects for a pleasant election day were not bright, but soon the sun beamed forth and the remainder of the day was all that could be desired. This, however, was not sufficient to draw out a big vote, and the stay-at-homes numbered over four hundred.

There seemed to be little interest on either side, but it was more pronounced in the democracy. They had no men or teams at work, a fact that made a vast difference in the total democratic vote. The republicans had a couple of teams to carry voters, but outside of this there was little hustling. There was no contest to especially stir up local interest and a spirit of indifference seemed to be in the air.

Just 600 voted in Precinct 1 and 185 in Precinct 2, a total of 735 out of about 1180, registered. Last year the total vote was 918 and the year previous 805. Sheriff Johnson had the largest vote here, having 6 more than Governor Greenhalge, who was next. Brooks, for senator, led the democratic vote with 191 against 172 for the gubernatorial candidate.

The voting was slow but steady, and there was no rush at any one time. Only split tickets are allowed to be counted before the polls are closed and so little was accomplished before 4.30, when the last vote was cast. The counting was done promptly and the result was announced at 8 o'clock, an intermission having been taken for lunch, which was served by T. Murphy. The following assisted the regular election officers: G. A. Parker, Geo. W. Foster, Ezra L. Abbott, Daniel A. Collins, Timothy O'Brien, Geo. A. Brown, E. J. Burke.

The vote on the woman suffrage question was overwhelmingly no. An appeal to the men issued by several prominent women and freely circulated at the polling place, doubtless swelled this side of the vote.

Andover's vote in detail was as follows:

Obituary.

Obituary.

EDWARD C. UPTON.

The death of Edward C. Upton which occurred very suddenly of heart disease at Lowell, Oct. 30, which was noted briefly in our last week's issue, takes away one of Andover's old and honored citizens. A man of sterling character and loyally interested in the town, his death adds one more to the long line of the older business men who seem to be passing along.

Mr. Upton was a skillful workman and successful in his conduct of the mason business; for many years, numbering among his regular patrons, the institutions and best citizens. He was a constant attendant and member of the South Church during his residence in Andover and for many years was a member of the church choir.

Deceased was 78 years old and leaves two daughters, Miss M. Lizzie and Mrs. A. F. Swanton of Lowell with whom he had lived the last few years. Funeral services were held at the South Church, Friday afternoon, and were attended by many old friends.

DAUGHTERS OF REVOLUTION.

The Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips Chapter Formed.

On Monday November fourth, there was organized in Andover, a chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution which was named "The Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips Chapter."

The State Regent Mrs. William Lee of Boston appointed the following officers: Regent Mrs. Annie Sawyer Downs. Vice Regent Mrs. Eliza H. Tucker. Secretary Mrs. William Marland. Treasurer Miss E. E. Giddings.

All these ladies are lineal descendants of men who took part in one way and another in the Revolutionary War and it is a little singular that each had four ancestors in the service of the country.

The chapter will immediately begin the study of American history taking for the special topic, the causes of the Revolutionary War.

The local chapters of the Daughters of the Revolution, are at liberty to select any branch of philanthropic work, or any subject for study, but naturally their choice will fall upon those in sympathy with the general aims of the National and State Societies.

In order to become a member of a local chapter a person must join the National Society through their State Society, if such a Society exists. If they have no State Society then join the National Society.

As we are proud to say Massachusetts has a large and flourishing state organization whose headquarters are at 10 Milk Street Boston Mass.

The fee to join the General Society is one dollar for initiation, and three dollars for annual dues.

Four dollars the first year, three dollars for all succeeding years covers the necessary expense.

As chapters however cannot be run any more than any other Clubs without some expenses they can vote what they deem expedient for the purpose. The chapter's expenses however are at their own disposal and in their own power. The Society has nothing to do with the expenses of a local chapter, and if one can be managed without any cost at all no persons will be more gratified than those belonging to the Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips Chapter.

The Secretary Mrs. William Marland School St. will be very glad to furnish cards, blanks, and all desirable information to those who would like to join the Society.

Andover vs. Lawrenceville.

Next Thursday afternoon the foot-ball season practically closes here with the game between the two great preparatory schools, Phillips Andover and Lawrenceville. This is the great contest of the season, although the excitement over it does not approach that of an Andover-Exeter game. It will take place on the Phillips campus at 3 o'clock. The admission price will be 50 cents, reserved seats 25 cents more, and carriages 25. Tickets on sale at the Andover Book-store, beginning next Monday. It is a disappointment to a great many that the game comes on Thursday instead of Saturday, a fact which will prevent a large number from attending. However, it is no fault of the management here.

Should Andover be represented by the best team that can be selected from the material, an exciting and close game may be looked for. But, and here comes the trouble, experience has shown so far this season that good men have had to stand on the side lines, while poor ones played, favoritism has been said to have something to do with it. However that may be, this is a case where the very best men, regardless of society, social standing, color or race, should be chosen to represent the school, not any one part of it. A great deal rests on Captain Young's shoulders, and it remains to be seen how he will discharge his duties.

Very little is known about the Lawrenceville team, except that it has a heavier line than Andover, some strong running backs, and the benefit of steady Princeton coaching. It held Princeton Varsity to 23 points.

The Andover team is very light, and will have a hard time to block the big New Jersey rushers. It has made a fair record this season, but has been very erratic in its playing, at one time playing strongly; at another, very poorly. The team that is to play Lawrenceville should be chosen at once and the different plays perfected. The interference is very crude and unless it is greatly improved, the backs will have a hard time. Andover has had no coaching except from Hinkey.

All things considered, the chances would seem to favor Lawrenceville, but foot-ball is a very uncertain thing. Another surprise like the base-ball game is not an impossibility. We certainly hope that Andover will win. At least, we want to see the strongest team play, so that there may be no excuses if the game is lost, except that Lawrenceville had a better team.

The line-up of the Phillips eleven has not yet been decided upon.

Juvenile Attire.

W. H. Gile & Co., the Lawrenceville clothiers, wish to call the attention of every parent to the beautiful selection of juvenile attire which they are now showing. The Overcoats, Suits, and Undershirts for the little ones are far superior to any shown in this section, and the low price is a wonder to every parent of the Children's Department.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, N. H., was told by her doctors she had Consumption, and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thomas, of 189 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result, even taking also then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Arthur Bliss' Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

When troubled with a cough or cold give this remedy a trial. You will be more than pleased with the result. It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. It relieves the lungs, opens the secretions, aids expectoration and effects a prompt and permanent cure. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains nothing injurious. 45 and 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Wedding of an Andover Young Man in Elgin, Ill.

The following account in the Elgin, Ill. News of Oct. 31, of the wedding of Henry F. Noyes, son of our well known furniture dealer, will be interesting to his many friends, who will join in the many congratulations he is receiving.

The marriage of Henry F. Noyes and Miss Fanny Amesley was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Amesley on DuPage Street at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, with the ring service, by Rev. J. S. Hood.

The bride is a bright, estimable young lady, who is well and favorably known in Elgin, which has been her home for more than ten years. A responsible position in the watch factory was abandoned for one of the most important and happiest events in any woman's history that of home making.

The groom was born and educated in the East, having taken his preparatory course at Phillips Academy. From this institution he entered the classical course at Yale. Mr. Noyes was captain of the University Base Ball team and with a number of players went abroad after investigating the School of Technology at Paris he decided in favor of a similar school in Boston, where he finished a two year's course in mechanical and electrical engineering in half the allotted time.

Having made thorough preparation for a successful professional career, Mr. Noyes came West, making his home in Elgin for several years, having but recently opened an office in Chicago.

The bride was becomingly attired in a brown traveling costume which harmonized with her fresh complexion and vivacity of manner.

Refreshments were served and the happy pair left amid a shower of rice for a short tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Noyes will return to Elgin where they will be "at home" to their friends after Nov. 25 at 429 Division Street.

Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Noyes of Andover, Mass., father and mother of the groom. Many presents were received and were both useful and beautiful.

Rev. Mr. Palmer's New Book.

The following review of Rev. Frederic Palmer's new book, "Studies in Theologic Definitions," which appeared in the Boston Herald last Sunday, will be of particular interest to the many friends of the well-known rector of Christ Church:

"The author of this volume is the rector of Christ Church, Andover, and his brother, George H. Palmer, is the Professor of Moral Philosophy at Harvard, commonly regarded as one of the ablest teachers on this subject in the country. Rev. Frederic Palmer has the same subtlety of intellect, the same power of lucid exposition, and the same keen interest in moral and spiritual problems. He writes for those persons who have felt a difference between the tone of the thought in which they find themselves, and that in which they have been accustomed by experience in tradition. Mr. Palmer points out what this difference is, and justifies the conviction that it is a fulfillment of the thought of former times. He takes up the chief topics of Christian belief, presenting religious truth chiefly on its thoughtful side. His object is to point out that the chief doctrines of religion rest upon the belief in Jesus Christ, to show them as systematic statements of facts which are involved in the nature of things, and to reveal in theology this thought of inherent necessity travelling in the greatness of its strength. While this is not the place in which to discuss these subjects in detail, it is right to state that Mr. Palmer has presented the being and character of God, the Trinity, the incarnation, salvation, forgiveness, the atonement, the church and immortality in a light which is both evangelical and spiritual, and yet so thoroughly personal that the old truth remains while the statement is new. Mr. Palmer is peculiarly happy in the statement of truth. He takes it out of theological formularies and presents it in clear and definite language which every one can understand. Perhaps the most notable part of the volume is the chapter entitled "The Church as an Expression of Organic Life." The relations of the Episcopal church to the Congregational body are here thoughtfully brought out, and some admirable and strong points are made. In an appendix is to be found an acute criticism of the "Andover Movement," which shows Mr. Palmer's gifts as a controversialist.

The style of this book is so finished and severe that one will need to read it more than once in order to bring out its full meaning. More sharpness of expression and incisive vigor would have made it more readable, but Mr. Palmer has avoided anything like overstatement, and his book will attract attention by its thoughtfulness, its clearness and its conscientious purpose to think things through. The poetry interspersed as interludes through the volume is not the least of its merits. It is full of spiritual feeling and human tenderness. Mr. Palmer has added something valuable to the current discussion of religious truth. ("Studies in Theologic Definitions Underlying the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds." By Frederic Palmer. New York: E. P. Dutton & Co., 12mo.)

FRYE VILLAGE.

Walter Wildes has moved his family from the Phoebe Frye house to Lawrence.

William B. Reynolds of Atkinson, N. H., is a visitor at J. W. Poor's.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, N. H., was told by her doctors she had Consumption, and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thomas, of 189 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result, even taking also then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at Arthur Bliss' Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

Sorry, but we can't say.

Mr. Townsend: Can you inform us why we, citizens of Andover, do not have our mail delivered? We were told if we would buy our stamps at the Post Office, when the income reached a certain amount, (if the streets were numbered) we should have Free Delivery. The same conditions in the Post Office entitled the Postmaster to an increase of salary. The town had the streets numbered, the Postmaster has his increase of salary, but we must go to the Post Office for our mail, pay twice as much for our Post Office box, and a longer walk or drive for the majority of letter writers. Must we wait for a new administration to get our rights?

Public Meeting.

A public meeting in the interests of Hampton (Va.) Institute will be held in the South Church vestry, Monday evening next, at 7.30. Rev. H. B. Turner, chaplain of the school, will exhibit stereopticon views of the school work, of the cabins and tepees from which its colored and Indian scholars come, and of the results which Gen. Armstrong's great work has already shown. A quartette of Hampton students will aid Mr. Turner by their songs. No admission fee will be charged, but a collection will be taken for the school. Hampton has won universal admiration for itself, and this evening will give a good chance to understand it better still.

Chrysanthemum Show.

J. H. Playdon, the Frye Village florist, announces that his annual Chrysanthemum Show will begin to-morrow (Saturday) and continue through Sunday and Monday. The greenhouses will be open to visitors all day and evenings until 9 o'clock and the public is cordially invited to see these beautiful flowers. Mr. Playdon has about a thousand plants, including many varieties and colors and all who take the time to see the show will be well repaid for their trouble.

Mechanics Fair Souvenir

Nearly every lady who visits the Mechanics' Fair, Boston, purchases a souvenir. Never before, however, has it been possible to buy shoes made in the exhibition building. This year a leading manufacturer is making ladies' Goodyear welts, which are sold by a leading downtown merchant. Those in charge of the exhibition claim that Goodyear welt shoes are just as comfortable as hand-sewed and that the machines exactly duplicate the work of a shoemaker at the bench. While the shoes here made are ladies', the manager states that shoes are also made for men and children by the Goodyear welt process.

Vote of Lawrence.

The vote of Lawrence for the leading officers was as follows:
Governor.—Greenhalge, 3229; Williams, 3056.
Lieut. Gov.—Wolcott, 3049; Grinnell, 3029.
Senator.—Derbyshire, 3148; Brooks, 3270.
Dist. Attorney.—White, 3168; Burke, 3206.
County Commissioners.—Danforth, 3237; Wildes, 3017.
Sheriff.—Johnson, 3145; Stevens, 3032.
Woman Suffrage.—Yes, 1374; No, 4401.

The New York Tribune in speaking of the "Republican opportunity says: Of course a great many things may happen between this and next November. The same observation was numerously made a year ago; and we now see how it has been fulfilled. But without any attempt to discount the future, it is perfectly obvious that the present is full of encouragement to Republicans; and also full of exhortation to them to use their opportunity wisely, and thus to merit a realization of the promises now made.

At the Communion Service at the Congregational Church last Sunday Mrs. William Clemons and Miss Mabel Herick were received into the membership of the Church.

The work of repairing the stone building, recently destroyed by fire, of the Ballardvale Mfg. Co. is being rapidly pushed along and already it begins to present a familiar appearance.

Last Monday evening Byron L. Orff, Lodge Deputy, installed the officers of Ballardvale Lodge, No. 103, I. O. G. T. There were ten members of Red Spring Lodge of Andover present. There are now 70 persons in the membership of the local lodge.

Quite a number of Ballard Vale people attended the County Christian Endeavor convention held at the Lawrence street church, Lawrence, last Wednesday afternoon and evening. The exercises were very interesting and instructive. Mr. William Shaw was one of the speakers.

Miss Maud B. Hodgdon attended the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hodgdon at Feeding Hills, Mass. The local Lodge of Good Templars of which Mr. Hodgdon was Past Chief Templar presented him with a silver cake basket as a token of their esteem and friendship.

The Bradley Course of lectures and entertainments commenced last Wednesday evening with a concert by Herbert Johnson's Quintette Club of Boston, assisted by Miss E. L. Southerland reader. There was a large audience present.

Mr. Johnson's solos and the singing of the Club were duly appreciated by those present. All of Miss Southerland's readings were given in a very finished and artistic manner and she received several well merited encores.

COLD STORAGE FOR FRUITS.

A Massachusetts Horticulturist Expresses Opinions on This Important Subject.

At a meeting of Massachusetts horticulturists, Dr. James Fisher, in speaking on "The Preservation of Fruits by Cold Storage," said he had first begun to experiment in this direction more than 20 years ago, when he placed a crop of pears in an icehouse and held them back from the market for several weeks, and in that way realized a profit twice as great as usual. For the growth of small fruits, like strawberries and raspberries, he said, cold storage is not at all practicable. But for the preservation of the winter apple it is a method shown to be very valuable and certain to add much to one's income from the fruits he raises. He said:

When you are ready to harvest your apple crop, the thing to do is to discover how to get the most money for it. If you have a good cellar, you can keep apples there with good results. A building can be constructed which will accomplish the same purpose. It should be built with double walls, with a space of one foot between. This space should be filled with planing mill shavings. An earth floor will answer, although a cement floor is better. There should be no windows in this structure, and there should be a double door on the north side. There should be a good sized ventilator in the center of the building.

When you are getting ready to store your apples, you want to take advantage of every cold night to reduce the temperature by leaving the doors open. Of course there will be some night when the temperature in the building will be cooler than in the open air. On such nights keep the door shut. After the apples are picked, I prefer to put them into bushel boxes rather than into barrels. After the apples are picked the sooner you get them into the cellar or storage house, where there is an equable temperature, the better. In packing apples for the market never put a large apple and a small apple side by side. Apples that are nearly of a size will sell much more readily and for a better price than when they are ill assorted.

Fruiting House Plants.

Of ornamental fruiting plants that are suitable for house cultivation we have but few species, but they are all of a very hardy constitution and will stand many changes of temperature without suffering much injury. They are all hard wooded and are not subject to the usual insect pests that so often trouble house plants. About all the attention that most of them require is care in watering and sponging about once a week to keep the foliage clean, according to American Gardening. From this same source it is learned that Ardisia crenulata is a handsome dwarf shrub, with bright green foliage and small white flowers, which are succeeded by bright scarlet berries borne on long stems. The berries are produced in clusters of four to eight, and they stand well out from the foliage, producing a very pretty effect. This plant is decidedly popular. It is a very satisfactory one, as its red fruit keeps on the branch in full beauty for a very long time.

A Driveway Entrance.

When the dwelling house stands a considerable distance back from the road and is approached through land rough and wild in appearance, some such scheme as the one suggested in a sketch originally made for American Gardening would be picturesque in itself and in keeping with its surroundings.

Such localities often abound in a kind of shaly rock that lends itself admirably to the making of a wall like this. The piers at either side are given an appearance of added solidity by being made larger at the base than at the top, and at the same time the artistic effect is increased. The stones are easily laid up. Indeed the wall and piers almost build themselves, so perfectly do the flat rocks fit upon one another, leaving a clean cut edge and surface.

Here and There.

The grape harvest proves a shortage. Mr. Hale is enthusiastic over the prospects of Japan plum culture at the south. In southern Mississippi already this beautiful fruit makes a profitable market crop.

Excessive gum on cherry trees seems to be due to lack of potash. At least a bushel or so of unleached wood ashes worked well into the soil about the roots of a tree that was badly affected caused it to heal over smooth, grow vigorously and bear abundantly, according to American Agriculturist.

The Early Baldwin has won a high rank among summer apples.

The French method of shipping pears long distances is to wrap each specimen with soft paper and cover the inside of the boxes with spongy paper or well dried moss.

The Winter Nellis pear is one of the most popular pears that come from California, but it is seldom grown by eastern orchardists.

MIMICRY AND REASON.

Indication That This Monkey Is Endowed With a Share of Each.

"That the monkey possesses intelligence to a considerable degree is probably true," said a hotel proprietor who has a small menagerie on his premises. "I believe, however, much of the intelligence with which that animal is credited is due to his love of mimicry."

"The other day two young men with two girls were at the monkey's cage feeding him peanuts. One of the girls was chewing gum, and one of the men suggested that she give the monkey some, expecting that if he took it in his mouth it would stick to his teeth, and he would make sorry work of trying to chew it. The girl at once parted with the sweet morsel and he so industriously chewing, extending it toward the cage. The monkey grabbed it instantly and put it into his mouth, but instead of chewing it, or attempting to, began pulling it out in small ribbons, as children are frequently seen to do. When he had it all out of his mouth, he rolled it into a compact ball between his hands, threw it into his mouth and began the operation again. He appeared to enjoy the performance as much as his visitors. That was imitation."

"That's all right," rejoined another, "but I had an experience with that same monkey wherein he displayed intelligence. I was by the cage smoking one day, and I thought to annoy him by blowing smoke in his face. I was much surprised to find that, instead of being annoyed, he enjoyed it, as was evidenced by his edging up as near me as possible to receive the smoke in larger volumes. Soon he began scratching himself at the point where most of the smoke came against him. When I had smoked one side for a few minutes, he would turn squarely round to have the other side treated in the same way. Then he sat up directly in front of me and received the smoke squarely in the face and neck. I don't know whether he held his breath, but he did not cough, sneeze or wince a particle. To complete the job he then sat with his back toward me, and it would have done you good to have seen him throw his hind feet over his back and scratch. It made me think of the kickers of a hay tedder in motion. Now that monkey knew, through some sort of intelligence, that nothing will send fleas and other insects to the surface or stupefy them as effectively as tobacco smoke."—Utica Observer.

COLLEGE GIRLS AND MARRIAGE.

Bits of Confession That Throw a Light on the Question.

I have no doubt that the remaining cause of the low marriage rate is that many men dislike intellectual women—whether because such women are really disagreeable or because men's taste is at fault I shall not try to determine. And even among those who like them as friends many feel as the young man did who made this confession:

"I never expected to marry the sort of girl I did. You know I always believed in intellectual equality and all that and had good friendships with the college girls. But, you see, you girls hadn't any illusions about us. After you had seen us hanging at the board on problems you could work and had taken the same degrees yourselves, you couldn't imagine us wondering just because we had gone through college, and when I met a dear little girl that thought I knew everything—why, it just keeled me right over. It was a feeling I had no idea of."

And the college woman answered: "I will betray something to you. Lots of us are just as unrefined as you. We want just as much to look up to our husbands as you want to be looked up to. Only of course the more we know the harder it is to find somebody to meet the want. Probably the equal marriage is really the ideal one, and everybody would come to prefer it some day. But personally I like men to be superior to me. Only I'll tell you what I don't like in them—the wish to keep ahead of us by holding us back, like spoiled children that want to be given the game and then admired for their skill. If men would encourage us to do our very best, and then do still better themselves, it ought to be good for civilization."—"The Marriage Rate of College Women," by Millicent W. Shinn, in Century.

No Precedent.

During a session of the territorial legislature of Montana, held more than 80 years ago, a measure was introduced which appeared to some people to involve serious constitutional questions. One man, who was supposed to possess great oratorical powers, declaimed fiercely against the measure, claiming that it was "clearly in opposition to the great principles of Magna Charta, which the brave barons in days of old had wrested from King John, a blessed result of a bloody conflict."

A lawyer, more famed for his sturdy common sense than for erudition, rose immediately to reply to this burst of fiery eloquence, evidently bent on making it clear that he for one was not to be overcome by high sounding words or obscure allusions.

"It's of mighty little importance what the opinions of King John and his man McCuthey were," he announced firmly, adding that it was high time for legislative bodies of Montana to think and act for themselves without any reference to the principles which governed the remote authorities quoted by his colleague.

The first orator's speech had made some impression, but the retort was received with the enthusiasm which it deserved, and it was owing to his influence rather than that of his more brilliant predecessor that the measure was defeated.—Youth's Companion.

Consoling Him.

Old Bullion—It galls me to think that my money goes into your spend-thrift hands when I die.

Young Bullion—Never mind, governor, it won't stay there long.—Indianapolis Journal.

Stays.

A Paris correspondent writes: "I have lately seen some stays made of a special kind of satin, called 'satin dresse,' whereby a lining is avoided. The material is black on one side and blue on the other, or pink on one side and white on the other, and so on. Stays of batiste, with hand-made elastic sides of the same stuff, are a specialty just now. Stays for equestrians and cyclists are made very small at the hips and very short."

"I have seen some very elegant corsets with hooks and clasps of gold and trimmed with precious stones. One of them, made for Mlle. Demary of the Gymnase, was in pink batiste, trimmed with real valenciennes lace and a hook of gold and sapphires. Mme. Marcel told me that the tendency at the present moment is toward very short corsets, although, in her opinion, they are better for the health made long."

"Another novelty in this house is the Greek brassiere, with a firm and supple silk hook, to be worn at night or under a dressing gown. It is kept in place over the shoulders and at the bottom by a strip of satin, with elastic confining it under the chest."

New House Decoration.

An art decorator of London tells of a new method of decorating houses, which is most unique. A material has been discovered combined with a process, which is the inventor's secret, for completely hardening, and, so to speak, petrifying natural flowers, and, what is more wonderful, preserving their colors, and imbedding them flush into the surface of a kind of liquid marble, or alabaster, the whole receiving several coatings of a transparent polishing substance, and drying hard as a rock. Some daisies and dahlia, and are said to be very handsome. The London residence of one of our countrymen, whose identity is concealed by the description "a wealthy American gentleman," has the conservatory floor studded by this new process with chrysanthemums of every known variety and color. Another floor is a deep water effect, with white lilies and with minnows swimming below a transparent surface. The treatment is beautifully applied, it is said, to table tops and small panels for decorative purposes.

Fastening the Baby's Dress.

Just now it is the fashion to fasten babies' dresses in the back with three tiny gold or silver safety pins linked together with a fine chain, writes Elizabeth Robinson Scovill in The Ladies' Home Journal. They save making the buttonholes, of which a double number is required if studs are used. The prettiest studs for this purpose are those shaped like a heart. They are made in both gold and silver. Handsome shirt studs can be utilized for the baby by having them fastened together by a delicate chain. Bib pins are also of gold or silver, plain, engraved with the baby's initial, monogram or crest, and set with pearls or turquoise. It is worth while to get especially pretty ones for little girls, as they can wear them later in their dresses. Some mothers use a pair of similar pins, rather smaller in size, to fasten the bib on the shoulders. Before this protector is worn the bib pin can be put in the yoke of the slip and the others used to catch up the sleeves.

The Daughter of Jenny Lind.

Mrs. Raymond Maude, who is married to a nephew of the present head of the Maude family, Lord Dovercourt, is the daughter of Jenny Lind (Mme. L. Goldschmidt). Her father, Otto Goldschmidt, who is still living, is the well known orchestral conductor and composer. Mrs. Raymond Maude is very musical, and her children also promise to develop lovely voices. Mrs. Raymond Maude is well known as a composer, and her delightful and sympathetic setting of these exquisite little lyrics, "Rhymes About a Little Woman," show promise of attaining an immense and well deserved popularity. Mrs. Maude is thoroughly British in character and manner, having been brought up in England, and only shows traces of her Scandinavian origin in her fair hair and complexion.

Hetty Green.

Although Hetty Green, with all her $80,000,000, dresses as cheaply as a shopgirl with $5 a week, she impressed the Washington reporter who saw her in the national capital the other day as a woman who would shine in fine raiment. "The truth is," says The Post, "that Mrs. Green is not only attractive, but exceedingly fine looking. In manner she is as vivacious and sprightly as a young girl, and to look at her rosy cheeks and her hair, with hardly a trace of silver in it, one would not believe that she had celebrated her sixty-first birthday. Arrayed in rich garments she would attract much attention."

Miss Anna Millar.

Chicago is justly proud of Miss Anna Millar, manager of the Chicago Orchestra. It is a position she has created for herself, as she is the business head of an organization of which few men would care to take the responsibility and has proved that she is competent to fill the position by making the season a financial success. Miss Millar is a native of Chicago and rejoices in all the characteristics attributed to her fellow citizens—energy, a strong will and great ambition. She is a college bred girl. She is fond of good literature, society and athletic sports.—Chicago Post.

Mme. Marchesi.

Mme. Marchesi has trained prima donnas for the lyric stage for 40 years and is a fine looking woman a few years past 40. She trained Melba, Calve, Eames, Sibly, Sanderson and other artists of almost equally great fame. She gained celebrity as a concert singer in 1850, and a few years later married the Marquis De Castrone, an Italian political refugee. She was a friend of the Abbe Leno.

HABITS OF THE MANATEE.

A Harmless Monster That Feeds Under Water on Grasses.

The manatee belongs to a mammalian order called sirenia, or sea cows, which contains only three species—our manatee, that of west Africa and the dugong of Australia. As its clumsy form suggests, it is an animal of quiet and even sluggish habits, entirely harmless and easily taken when once its haunts are known. When at home, its food consists of tender aquatic plants and grasses, always eaten under water, and its presence is generally revealed by the bits of broken stems and grass which escape and float to the surface above where it is feeding.

In captivity it feeds on cabbage, lettuce, the leaves of the canna, celery tops, watercress, spinach, and also certain kinds of ocean seaweed. In the St. Lucie river its favorite food is a luxuriant, trailing aquatic grass, called manatee grass, in which the manatee finds not only good food, but good hiding places from its human enemies.

The bones of this animal are massive, solid and quite heavy (some hunters will tell you its bones are "solid ivory"), and its skin is as thick and tough as that of a hippopotamus. I have seen very good cases made of strips of manatee skin, twisted like a lightning rod and dried. Its flesh is very good, and, to me, it tastes quite like lean pork. Curiously enough, this strange creature actually sheds its outer skin every year, as does a serpent. The living specimens that from time to time have been captured and kept for exhibition in Demerara, Philadelphia, New York and London have in all cases been of small or medium size, varying in length from 4 to 7 feet. The one which was shown in the Central park menagerie in 1873 was 6 feet 9 1/2 inches in length and weighed 450 pounds.—W. T. Hornaday in St. Nicholas.

The Battle of Belahoe.

The battle of Belahoe is famous in Irish history as a spoiling of the spoils. Two chieftains, O'Neill and O'Donnell, had made a thieving excursion into a neighboring territory and were returning with their plunder when they met an English force, and after a brief and feeble resistance ran away, leaving their booty in the hands of the English.

Wedding.

CROSS-STEVENS.

Beneath a cluster of floral bells of carnation pinks, the marriage of Miss Virginia Stevens, daughter of ex-congressman Moses T. Stevens, to Mr. Whitman Cross of Washington, D. C., took place at the Stevens' mansion, in Oakwood Hill, yesterday afternoon.

It was a chrysanthemum wedding, and the apartments of the mansion were beautifully decorated with a wealth of these blossoms and asparagus vine.

The ceremony was performed at 2 o'clock by Rev. Charles Noyes, pastor of the Unitarian Church, in the bay window of the library, which was banked with ferns and palms.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Stevens, as maid of honor, and Prof. Samuel L. Penfield of New Haven, Ct. was best man.

The ushers were Messrs. Moses T. Stevens, Jr., brother of the bride, and Isaac Osgood of North Andover, Edward H. Smith of Boston, and Horace N. Stevens of New York.

The Columbian orchestra rendered the Lohengrin wedding march as the bridal party entered the library. First came the maid of honor, and following was the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father. They were met by the groom and his best man, and the ceremony was solemnized, the bride being given away by her father.

The bride wore an exquisite costume of white satin, trimmed with duchesse lace. Her veil was of white tulle, with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The maid of honor was attired in white broadened silk and had a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony a wedding repast was served by Caterer Weber of Boston, during which and until the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Cross, on their wedding tour, the orchestra discoursed music.

The gifts were most beautiful and many.

Mr. and Mrs. Cross will reside in Washington and will be at home after Jan. 1.

Four intimate friends of the bride had charge of the decorations, which were arranged by Messrs. Thornton of Lawrence. The carriages were under the direction of William H. Higgins of Andover.

Among the guests were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Kendall, Mr. Matthew Luce, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bolles, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Donald, Mr. R. P. Halliwell, Hon. and Mrs. Oliver Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. D. Smith and family, John F. Tyler, Esq., Mr. Ernest Cabot, Mrs. Gen. Isaac I. Stevens and family, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Davis, and Robert C. Billings of Boston; Hon. C. E. Stevens of Ware; Hon. Eben S. Stevens and family of Dudley; William C. Baker, Esq. and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O. Metcalf of Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Stanley Matthews and Miss Mitchell of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson and family of Salem; Mr. J. Tyler Stevens and family of Lowell; Mr. John P. Stevens, Edward D. Page Horace N. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles May and Mrs. Bigelow of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. James Saunders of Schenectady, N. Y.; and other friends of the family from North Andover, Andover, Haverhill, Lawrence and Salem.

Annual Meeting of Charitable Union.

The annual meeting of the Charitable Union was held at its rooms Wednesday, Nov. 6, at 8 o'clock. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. H. N. Stevens; vice-president, Mrs. Moses T. Stevens; secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. John H. Rea; committee of benevolence, Mrs. Orin Foster, Mrs. W. W. Chickering, Rev. Charles Noyes, Mrs. Louis Weil, Miss Kate Johnson; Committee on work, Mrs. M. T. Stevens, Mrs. S. D. Stevens, Mrs. George A. Rea.

Secretary's report for the year ending Nov. 6, 1895.—The Union has held twenty-one regular meetings, and one extra one the past year, with an average attendance of ten in the afternoon and fourteen in the evening. It has had one entertainment, a "Pitcher Party" in December last. The year commenced with $137.76 in the treasury, and has at its end $121.63, expending $194.71. The membership last year was 81, 7 new members were admitted. Donations of money to the amount of $44.00 were received, and also large quantities of spoon cloth, flannel, and ready made garments. The Union has given to families in town 117 garments, two pair blankets, 44 yards flannel and cotton cloth, and through its instrumentality 345 garments, 32 spoons, 18 pairs shoes, 8 pairs blankets, and 3 comforters were sent to the Nebraska sufferers. Groceries bills to the amount of $15.52 has been paid; coal bills of $14.48, and $5.75 for wood has also been paid, and $39.25 has been paid for nurses bills. The usual interest in the Union is unabated.

A Light Vote but Heavy Republican.

The lack of interest during the recent campaign was an indication that the vote would be comparatively light, particularly so in town where there was nothing of vital interest at stake, the failure of the district democrats to find or to place a candidate in the field for representative making that office, ordinarily sure, doubly safe for Mr. Halliday, by the largest majority ever given in the district, or probably that ever will be given a candidate.

The total registration was 762, divided as follows: Precinct 1, 518; precinct 2, 244. Voted: Precinct 1, 338; precinct 2, 177; total, 505.

SELLING A MINE.

A Western Man's Great Luck in Disposing of His Property.

"It is the easiest thing on earth to sell a mine in London for almost any price, provided you have anything to show an expert," said Major Frank McLaughlin. "There is also a right way and a wrong way to go about it. Some time ago I went to London to negotiate the sale of some mining property. Of course, the first thing I had to do was to let capital know what I was there for. Then, when inquiries commenced, I simply said: 'Gentlemen, I have mining property to sell. If you mean business and want to buy, send your expert out to examine the property and make a report on it. You will know then what you are buying.'

"A company was organized. The expert examined the property and reported favorably, and a meeting was held to discuss terms.

"Now, major," said the spokesman, "we have found that the property may be worth something. What is your price?"

"Two hundred and fifty thousand," said I.

"That is more than we expected to pay. We expected to pay about 300,000. There is not much difference between 200,000 and 350,000. If you will drop the 50,000 we will take it."

"I expected to get about $100,000 for the property, so with a show of reluctance I agreed to accept their offer. When the papers were made out, I was surprised to learn that they had been talking about pounds and I about dollars, but I was very careful not to let my surprise leak, and that is the way I got $1,000,000 for the mine. Great people to do business with."—San Francisco Post.
